Despite a large budget cut the library has not cut back its student services.

Library cuts no services

by Mary F. Scalisi

"Budget cuts are not unique for the Hooley-Bundschu Library. Libraries all over the United States have suffered cut-backs and closings," reflects Sister Una Marie Brumback, library director at Avila for 12 years. "Budget cuts are made so that tuition for students can be kept as low as possible."

Sister Una Marie reports that the library has never had its budget frozen, like some libraries have. "Many libraries have reduced their hours. We have not. We have the same hours as last year.

The library is open with professional staff almost 80 hours per week."

The library spends a substantial sum of money for periodicals. "The average cost of a periodical is $34.00 per title. Some periodicals cost $160.00 per year, some up to $175.00 a year," Sister happily reports, "The periodical budget has never been cut."

Tuition is not the only source of revenue for the library. The library also receives federal money. "Federal aid to libraries has been cut drastically. Our federal grant of $5000.00 was recued to $1200.00,"

Sister says.

Campus organizations also contribute money. The History Club last year donated $450.00 for history books. The library also accepts donations.

Budget cuts have not stopped the library from growing. The Audio-Visual Room will be completely equipped and ready by December. It will have "wet carrols" and more pieces of A-V equipment.

Sister Una Marie likes to meet and talk with the students. "Our main aim is to help the Avila students. We do the best we can."

Blithe Spirit haunts Avila for two more nights

The ghost of laughter past, present and future haunts the Goppert Theatre in the hilarious comedy hit play, Blithe Spirit. The haunting begins tonight and tomorrow night at 8 PM. This Noel Coward comedy hit of London and Broadway stages is clever, funny, and written to provide a highly entertaining evening at the Goppert.

Directed by Marsha M. Morgan, the cast includes Kimberly Jeffries, Teresa Fischer, David Pilcher, Diane Burrichter, Nancy Nail, Anna Maria Pileggi, and Scott Turley. The role of Elvira (the spirit) is a ghostly result of an unintentional seance, and has long been one of comedy's most endearingly mischievous characters.

Again, the Performing & Visual Arts Department is pleased to extend a V.I.P. (complimentary) ticket to members of the student body, faculty and staff. Reservations for this delightful evening of laughter can be made by calling the Goppert Theatre Box Office at 942-8408, ext. 290.

Reservations insure that your V.I.P. ticket will be held on reserve in the box office until 7:45 PM the night of performance. Please make reservations early.

Business Department concerns discussed with Dean Scott at Student Government meeting

by Kristi Hennessey

Several weeks ago the Student Government Association held a meeting with Dean Scott to discuss recent occurrences in the Business Department.

What has concerned many students is the hiring of a Business Department Chairperson. Since faculty and department heads have a large influence on students, they feel they should have some input into the hiring of the Chairperson. Dean Scott explained the qualification necessary for Business Department Chairperson and added that students may be involved in the hiring process if time permits.

Also discussed was the necessity for more full-time instructors in the Business Department. According to Dean Scott, the Board of Trustees is exploring the possibility of reallocating funds from other departments to the Business Department. Also being considered is the possible creation of an endowment committee to help make extra dollars available to the Business Department.

With a 133:1 ratio of business students to full-time business faculty, there is also the need for more advisors. A solution to this problem may be assigning students to other instructors. Dean Scott felt this may give business students broader possibilities when planning their courses.

The final problem discussed was the offering of several business courses at night only. Dean Scott felt that business students should be forewarned that they will have to take night courses. Certain courses can only be offered at night because the college cannot afford to offer them during the day and also at night.

Avila Radiologic Tech program receives accreditation

by Nancy Burnor

Education in Radiologic Technology has traditionally been accomplished through 2-year hospital-based programs or junior college programs. However, because of the changing needs of today's society, professionals who possess the educational background, management skills, and scientific knowledge are needed to meet the ever-changing and demanding roles of various radiology professions.

Avila is now able to offer a unique program to the Kansas City area in cooperation with St. Joseph's Hospital. Officials of the Allied Health Dept. were notified recently of the accreditation of their new radiologic technology program. St. Joseph's, the clinical education for the program, offers graduates both a Bachelor of Science degree and eligibility for a national professional certification. Together, these opportunities make the programs unique.

As the field of radiology becomes more technical and sophisticated, so do the various professions. Like nurses and other health professionals, radiologic technologists are assuming responsibilities that once were the exclusive domain of physicians. Professional technologists are assuming greater responsibilities in the areas of patient care, radiation safety, hospital cost containment, and employee relations. With these expanded responsibilities, the necessity for well-qualified educators to prepare individuals for entry into the radiologic technology professions has increased.

Thus, the roles of educators, managers, and clinicians require a more thorough base of knowledge and professional expertise than ever before.

For more information about radiologic technology, or the opportunities and careers it can offer, contact Ann Thompson, Program Director, 942-8400 ext. 244.

Upcoming events

Christmas Dance

This year's Christmas Dance will be held on Saturday, December 5th. The dance will be held from 9:00 p.m. to 12:30 a.m., at the Ramada Inn South, located at South 71 Highway on Longview Road exit. Music will be supplied by Bonita Shortline, and dress will be semi-formal. The dance is free to all Avila students and a guest.

Friday night films

Jane Fonda, Lee Marvin, Michael Callan, and Nat King Cole star in 'Cat Ballou,' an insane comedy which paints a picture of some of the good guys and the bad guys in the old west. This rootin' tootin' western classic spoof will be shown tonight at 7 and 9 PM in the Marian Centre lounge.

The first semester Friday films end with the showing of 'And Justice For All.' Al Pacino stars as a young defense attorney in this thick plotted film which takes a shot at uncovering many of the defects in the US legal system. Jack Warden, John Forsythe, and Lee Strasberg, help reveal some of the real truths behind the system. 'And Justice For All' is an intense dramatic film which will be shown December 4th at 7 and 9 PM in the Marian Centre lounge.

Older Students make impact

A time to come forward

The American people have been called on by their President to volunteer. They are to volunteer in areas that the federal government can no longer aid the private citizen.

No one has limited it to just those areas though. There are many places and organizations in everyday life looking for volunteers.

Nursing homes and hospitals are always in need of volunteers, as are hotlines which must be manned day and night. Neighborhoods as well need people to help those who can no longer help themselves.

One doesn't have to go through red tape or formal procedures. It can be as easy as running an errand for the shut-in next door or picking up litter along your street while you are walking.

Like your community there are many areas at Avila looking for volunteers. Just pick any of the organizations of interest and more than likely they will have a place for you.

Many are just beginning to realize how it feels to give of yourself to others instead of having others give to you.

Speak of volunteers

...the blood drive held on November 2 was a great success according to nurse Carol Frevert and others involved in the drive. A total of 89 people came to donate their blood. Of the 89, 17 were dismissed because of health reasons.

The drive was sponsored by Avila's Med Tech Association and the Avila Student Nursing Organization. They were aided by other volunteers on campus. All the blood and platelets will go to patients in area hospitals.

The platelets are used to help fight the side effects of chemotherapy.

Have we got a job for you

The Student Union Board is currently looking for a Special Events Chairman to line up mini-concerts, lectures and other events.

Sarah Benedict was recently named as the Films Committee Chairman.

To the faculty, staff, and students

On behalf of my family. I would like to thank everyone on campus for their support and condolences over my father's death. Your expressions of sympathy were deeply appreciated.

During a time like this we realize how much our friends really mean to us.

Older students attending college for the first time or coming back after a long absence are finding that they are not alone. At colleges everywhere, older students are making an impact, and Avila is no exception.

Gail Majors, a second-semester sophomore, is one such student. She has decided to come back to school after a 15 year absence to obtain her degree in elementary education.

The problems faced by any student are no different than that of the older student. Gail finds that scheduling her time between her family, a job, and schoolwork has been a challenge. Husband Dave and son Matthew, 8, help with the housework. Dave does part of the laundry and is learning to cook, while Matthew takes care of his room.

Her family also provides inspiration. Matthew is an "enthusiastic supporter" of her being in school and as for Dave, she "couldn't have come back without his support."

Gail was also concerned about being accepted by the other students, but happily, this has not been a problem. Gail has discovered that "the kids haven't changed."

Her best friend recommended Avila to her and she has many good things to say about it. "I am impressed with the teachers. I didn't realize they would care as much as they do," Gail says.

When Gail was a student at UMKC, she was in some classes of 400-500 people, so Avila's small class size is welcome.

What advice does Gail have for older students?

"You must really be organized. You cannot do it without the support of your family. You must have a lot of desire and be willing to give up so much."

"I'm going because I know I want to be a teacher — the best teacher I can be, and I think Avila's the place to do that."

Play Review

“Blithe” has spirit

by Mark Johnson

Students and faculty still have two more nights left to see the very entertaining Noel Coward play Blithe Spirit in Goppert Theatre. The play runs through tomorrow night and begins at 8:00 p.m.

The play revolves around a mystery writer named Charles (Scott Turley), his present wife Ruth (Anna Maria Pileggi), and his soon to return deceased wife Elvira (Kimberly D. Jeffries).

Elvira is brought back by the unique psychic Madame Arcati (Teresa Fischer). That's when things start to get fun, for Elvira at least.

Jeffries and Pileggi portrayed their characters well, blending the right amount of seriousness and lightheartedness.

Fischer as Madade Arcati was wonderfully funny and unpredictable. Nancy Nail, though, steals the show in the few scenes she appears as the bumbling maid Edith.

Turley had a little more trouble with his character than the rest of the cast. The role of Charles, though, is not an independent one but a dependent role on the other characters.

One also cannot afford to miss the set by Cathy Lass.

Overall, the cast and crew did an excellent job in the production. The play, though, at times, seemed a little beyond their reach.

Biology class to invade Mexico over spring break

In even-numbered years the Avila Biology Area offers students the opportunity to explore an ecosystem quite different from those found in the Midwest.

This coming spring the Area will be offering Field Biology, which involves preliminary studies leading to a trip to sub-tropical Mexico over spring break. Each student will be responsible for researching and collecting relevant data on a topic related to the social or natural history of the trip's destination.

This year's goal is the Mexican state of Veracruz. The region offers coastal deserts, beaches, and forests as well as high altitude cloud forests in its inland mountain ranges. The latter is a unique phenomenon of tropical Central and South America and has numerous plants and animals found nowhere else in the world.

In addition to the natural wonders, the region is also of historical significance, having been the site of one of the Indian civilizations that pre-dated Columbus' arrival in the New World.

Due to the fact that transportation will be via vans and camping will be the means of lodging provided, enrollment is strictly limited.

If you are interested in further information, please contact Bob Powell in the Biology Office, O'Reilly Hall.

Today is deadline for WonderShop nominations.

Today is the deadline to submit nomination forms to the Dean of Students Office to be considered for participation in the Winter Wondershop '82, January 29-30, 1982.

Winter Wondershop '82 is especially geared for students interested in involvement and leadership in Student Government Association, Student Union Board, "Avila Examiner," Student Activity Fee Board, and Residence Hall Government.

Participation in Winter WonderShop '82 may be initiated by submitting a short nomination form. Nominations will be accepted from interested students (self-nomination), faculty, staff, and current leaders.

Funded by the Student Activity Fee, this program is free to all participants.

Questions concerning Winter WonderShop '82 may be directed to the Dean of Students office located in lower Blasco Hall.

Mission club works to promote awareness

The Avila Mission club is small in numbers and large in purpose. The club's purpose is to promote the universal brotherhood of man and an awareness of the world as a community.

One way it does this is by raising money for missions in the United States and abroad. The money is raised through various projects and activities held on campus throughout the year.

Currently the club is selling two-year planning calendars for $2.00 apiece. They are available from any club member or you can contact Sister Ann Dominic. The money raised from the sale will go to the Sisters of St. Joseph of Carondelet mission in Peru.

The mission serves those in need, regardless of their religious beliefs.

Requirements for membership in the club are simple. All one has to do is be willing to give some time and effort to plan or sponsor a project, usually the "money making" type.

Those interested should contact Sister Anne Dominic in the Math Department or club president Lisa Werth.

Karla Kerr "supervises" two children during recess in the Education Department.

Avila's Education Department has something for everyone.

by Denise Kaufman

Avila's Education Department offers a wide variety of choices for those interested in education. Four year programs in Montessori, Elementary Education, Secondary Education, and Special Education with emphasis in emotional disturbance/learning disabilities are offered as well as two masters degree programs.

In the Montessori program students get the opportunity to work with three classes of Montessori-aged children on campus and receive training. This program is affiliated with the Association Montessori Internationale (AMI) and the program qualifies teachers to work with children in any country.

Starting in the freshman year, Elementary Education majors get the chance to work in a practicum approximately one day a week as a teachers aid at an area school of their choice. This is beneficial because the students get the opportunity to interact with school-aged children and decide if this type of major will fully suit their needs. A unique factor in this program is that the students themselves are able to select a school which is easily accessible to them and where they feel most comfortable. In addition, students are able to build a good rapport with school faculty and administration through formulating teaching assignments.

A degree in Special Education will aid in understanding the individualized needs for the mentally retarded, learning disabled, or emotionally disturbed child. Specialized modes of teaching and testing are learned in this program. Off campus practicums are arranged during the senior year. An added advantage is incorporated into the structure of the Montessori and Special Education programs. Upon completing a degree in either of these two programs, the graduate automatically qualifies for an Elementary teaching certificate. This is a great bonus, for the graduate is given more job opportunities for the future.

An Elementary or Secondary Education degree prepares the student for teaching in various types of situations with a wide range of students. Added experience is gained during the senior year when the student participates in an eight week student teaching assignment. At the end of this two month period, students are critiqued by department heads as well as the actual classroom teachers they had been working with.

According to Sr. Marie Georgette, head of the department of Education and Psychology, "The future for teachers today is promising, contrary to the believed national trend." A great demand is seen for teachers today and more openings are available than students to fill the positions. Avila students are known to have an exceptionally high degree of placement after graduation. This is due to the programs' fine reputation and early practicum experience.

So if you enjoy working with people, making a commitment, and helping others, explore the field of education — it may be just what you're looking for.

"The Wall" cracks in loss to Hawks

by Mark Johnson

Defense was the main ingredient in Avila's soccer success this year. During the season the Avalanche defense never allowed a team more than a one goal lead in any game at anytime.

This streak came to an end when Rockhurst pulled out to a 3-1 second half lead. Avila scored once more as they lost the District 16 finals to the rival Hawks 3-2.

Avila found themselves down 1-0 as they started the second half. Mike Auck tied the game when he headed in a corner kick from Joe Schrick. At this point Avila let its defenses down as Rockhurst scored back to back goals in a space of two minutes.

The Avalanche narrowed the Hawk's lead to one goal when Ken Bromeier scored on a pass from Mike Auck in front of the goal. Less than ten minutes remained on the clock.

Avila players took several more shots on goal, but the Hawk defense held. All-American candidate Joe Schrick led his team into the finals as the Avalanche rolled by Park 6-1.

Schrack scored three goals and added two assists in the first half with Avila taking a 5-0 lead. One of Schrick's goals was a penalty kick through a wall of Park defenders.

The defense was just as impressive allowing Park only seven shots on goal the entire game.

Schrack finished the regular season as Avila's leading scorer with 8 goals followed by Jack Tracy with 7 and Neil Madigan with 5.

Leading in the assists category as well was Schrick with 6, Madigan with 3, and Mike Auck with 3.

Anthony Christian tallied five shutouts in goal for the Avalanche.

game also came against Rockhurst, only this one was in the playoffs.

Butler's injury could not have come at a more inopportune time as he was developing as the team's field leader, according to his coach Chris Carenza. Butler says it was even harder on him being on the sidelines and not being able to help his teammates.

What Butler was to the defense, Tracy was to the offense. Tracy wasn't satisfied though with this year's performance from himself or the team. He felt there was room for improvement in both areas. "Tracy gave the offense an added dimension with his explosiveness off the mark," said Coach Carenza.

Both Tracy and Butler

Avila ties Bobcats in playoffs

The Avalanche finished their best season ever by tying School of the Ozarks 17-15, 4-15 in the District 16 playoffs. It was the first time in the playoffs for Avila Volleyball.

A strong defense and consistent serving enabled Avila to upset the Bobcats 17-15. Standouts on the court for Avila included Sue Marko at the net and Sue Comford serving.

Earlier in the playoffs, Avila lost two games to UMKC 15-12, 15-11. In the first game Avila pulled in front 11-7 on Debbie Diver's serving with Jan Harrington and Kathy Werth having strong games at the net. Avila could not hold their lead through and lost 15-12.

UMKC jumped to a quick lead and went on to win the second game 15-11. Kathy Hale kept it close with her solid all-around play.

Avila opened the playing by falling to a hard hitting Missouri Southern team 15-4, 15-6.

Avalanche basketball to rely on speed, quickness, and shooting

Men's Basketball

Quickness and shooting will be strong points for Avila's men's basketball team this year. In fact, Coach Bill Waris feels this year's squad is probably the quickest and best shooting in Avila's basketball history.

In the backcourt, the Avalanche return all their guards and add Mike Davis. Returning guards include Darrek Porter, Bob Harbin, Scott Friedman, and Ted Melton.

On the front line, the Avalanche return five players from last season and add one newcomer. The five returnees include Baxter Jones, Marvin Sellers, Mark Hatchett, Fred Haney, and Anthony Christian.

Donna Babich, and Teresa Crimi.

The front line will be led by sophomore Susan Sulzer and junior Marsha Huss.

Also up front will be newcomers Kathy Hale and Susan Marko. Kathy will be playing the swing (guard-forward) spot and Susan will be working at forward and center.

It's time to dribble away your blues

January 20th starts the 1982 Intramural Men's and Women's Basketball tournament. Three person teams will play through until February 24th. Games will be held in Maybee Fieldhouse and playing times for this event will be Wednesdays 11:00 a.m. - noon, 8:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m. and Sundays 1:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m. Each team must have six players on their team with three persons on the court at all times. Men and women will have separate tournaments, unlike volleyball. The winning team members will receive an Intramural T-shirt. So brush-up on your dribbling and head for the Office of Student Life where you can sign-up your team — deadline for registration will be December 12.

The Intramural Volleyball Tournament came to an end last Thursday, November 5. Out of the eight team participants, Good Stuff '81, headed by captain Chris Carenza took first place with a seasonal record of 7-0. Close behind them were the SUBstitutes, captains being Charlie Sullentrop and Jane Twyman, with a record of 6-1. Other teams that participated in the Tournament were as follows: What a Team! (5-2), Demolition Derby (4-3), Long Island Tease (3-4), Bernie's Boom Booms (2-4), Drama Club (1-5), and Canoe Kazooers (0-6).

From the Bench

A tale of two players

by Mark Johnson

As the 1981 soccer season drew to a close so did the collegiate careers of two of Avila's top players. Bob Butler and Jack Tracy have played their final games in Avalanche uniforms.

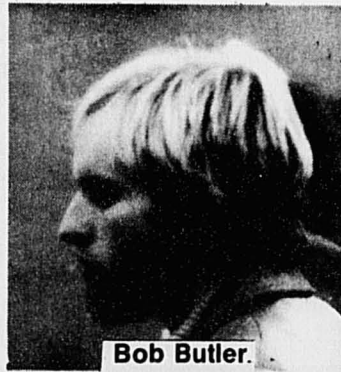

Butler's final game came earlier in the season when he injured his knee against Rockhurst. Tracys final have been playing soccer since their early childhoods and have done so for their love of the game. The two also have professional aspirations for the near future, whether it be the indoor or outdoor game.

The thing they will miss most at Avila will be the friends they have made. Their friends and Avila soccer will miss them as well.
